

EMORY Health Sciences News

---

Robert W. Woodruff Health Sciences Center
Health Science Communications

December 3, 2004

Media Contact: Amy Comeau, 404-727-8445, acomeau@emory.edu

CALENDAR LISTING

Dec. 10 Jowers Lecture To Focus on Nursing and Health Services Research

WHAT: David Jowers Lecture — “Intersections of Nursing and Health Services Research”

LECTURER: Dr. Cheryl Jones, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

WHEN: Friday, December 10, 2004

TIME: 1 PM – 2:30 PM

WHERE: Alumni Auditorium
Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing
Emory University
1520 Clifton Road
Atlanta, GA 30322

COST: FREE

PHONE: 404-727-8421

DESCRIPTION:

With the continued nursing shortage crisis, it is imperative for the industry to not only look at how to produce more nurses into the field, but also to take a look at the current systems in place. Are there ways to modernize care services so that a nurse can do her job more efficiently while also delivering the same high quality of care?

Dr. Cheryl Jones will address these issues and those of care quality and safety at Emory University’s Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing’s annual David Jowers Lecture on Friday, December 10 from 1:00-2:30 PM. Titled “Intersections of Nursing and Health Services Research,” the lecture will be held in the School’s Alumni Auditorium, located at 1520 Clifton Road on the Emory campus.

Cheryl B. Jones, PhD, RN is an associate professor and coordinator of the Health Care Systems program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill’s School of Nursing.

###